The concept of Arab-West Report is very convincing, and the aims of your organization are truly worth being supported. The particular approach of AWR – the focus on the Egyptian-Arabic press, the comprehensive analysis concerning the chosen topics, without restrictive pre-selection on the part of your organization, though at the same time with an evaluation and classification – represents a unique way of conveying information about Egypt, but also about the “Middle East” in general. This makes it possible for the readers to acquire more profound knowledge about the plurality of opinions and the political and social discourse in that part of the world.
